

Canada-US Relations after 9/11
A Symposium
Canadian Studies Program
International & Area Studies
University of California at Berkeley
The Faculty Club (Heyns Room)
March 20, 2001, 9:00 - 4:00 pm

Participants

The Honourable Wendell Sanford, (Keynote speaker at luncheon)

Consul, Political, Economic and Public Affairs at the Canadian Consulate General, Los Angeles

A native of Halifax, Nova Scotia Mr. Sanford received his BA. (Political Science) and B. Ed. from St. Mary's University, LLB from Dalhousie University and Masters of Public Policy from Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand. He joined the Department of External Affairs in 1978 and served as consular officer for the Iran Task Force.

Mr. Sanford's assignments have included Bangkok (1980 - 83) as consular, academic, press and political officer; Boston (1986 - 90) as trade commissioner and (1990 - 92) as founding Director of the Office of Nova Scotia in New England; and Wellington (1996 - 98) as exchange officer with the New Zealand Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade responsible for South Pacific Fisheries Negotiations.

In Ottawa, Mr. Sanford has worked in the Legal Advisory and Legal Operations divisions, the South and South East Asia Relations Division, the Economic Analysis Division and most recently as Deputy Director of the Program Analysis Division. From 1992 to 1994 Mr. Sanford was the Deputy Coordinator in the Office of the Ambassador for Fisheries Conservation and in 1995 acted as the Sponsorship Coordinator for the 1995 Halifax G8 Summit.

Prior to joining the Department of External Affairs Mr. Sanford taught junior high school in Calgary, Alberta, served as a staff officer at Maritime Command Headquarters in Halifax and as a solicitor for the Attorney General of Nova Scotia. Mr. Sanford retired from the Canadian Forces Naval Reserve with the rank of Lieutenant Commander and is the recipient of the Canadian Forces decoration.

Michael K. Hawes (Keynote speaker at dinner)

Dr. Michael K. Hawes is currently the Executive Director of the Foundation for Educational Exchange between Canada and the United States of America (The Canada - US Fulbright Program). He is on leave from the Department of Political Studies at Queen's University where he is a professor of international political economy and international relations and adjunct professor of international business in the School of Business. During the 1999/2000 academic year Dr. Hawes was the J. William Fulbright Distinguished Professor of International and Area Studies at the University of California at Berkeley and the John A Sproul Senior Research Fellow in the Canadian Studies Program at UC Berkeley. He has held posts as visiting scholar at the Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México in Mexico City, visiting professor of International Relations at Tsukuba University in Japan and visiting professor of international political economy at the International University of Japan. He has published widely on foreign policy, political culture, international economic relations, regional integration in North America and East Asia and related subjects. Recent books include Relating to the Powerful One, Sport and Canadian Diplomacy and World Politics: Power, Interdependence and Dependence. Dr. Hawes is currently a co-director of research on the Transculturalisms Project at the International Council of Canadian Studies. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the North American Institute. A long-time resident of Kingston, he currently resides in Ottawa with his wife, Dr. Donaleen Hawes, and their two sons.

Panel 1

Heather Nicol, Department of Geography, State University of West Georgia

Heather Nicol teaches in the Geography Program, State University of West Georgia. Her research is focused on changing border relations in a global world boundary issues, with particular reference to Canada, the US and the Caribbean. Dr. Nicol has published several books and articles on Canada-US Cuba relations, economic and political integration within the Caribbean, and changing border dynamics of the global world. She is currently working on a volume which explores the concept of "permeable" borders, as well as the impact of changing transborder regimes in the 21st century. She is a transplanted Canadian who has been in Georgia just over a year.

Glynn Custred, Department of Anthropology, California State University, Hayward

Dr. Custred is professor of anthropology at California State University, Hayward. He has done field work in Latin America and Southeast Europe. His specialties are anthropological linguistics and sociocultural anthropology. Among his research interests in those fields is the study of borders, borderlands and frontier regions. He is a member of the Association of Borderland Studies and a contributor to its publication and its activities.

Ted Thomas, Department of Sociology, Mills College

Dr. Thomas received BA, MA, and BD degrees from the University of Alberta, and a Ph.D. from Columbia. He teaches urban sociology and design, comparative sociology, the sociology of religion, and criminology at Mills College in Oakland, where he has been on the faculty since 1965.. His research interests include metropolitan governance and Canadian gun control legislation. He is a professor of sociology at Mills, and was dean of the Division of Social Sciences there for several years. He has served as the president of the Western Social Science Association, is on the Executive Council of ACSUS, and is an original member of the Canadian Studies Advisory Board at UC Berkeley.

Coline Campbell, Barrister, former Member of Parliament

Ms. Campbell lives in Ottawa, summers in Nova Scotia and winters in Palm Desert. She was educated at St Francis Xavier University, Laval University, Ottawa University and attended the Kennedy School of Public Administration for one term. She was first elected to Parliament in 1974, again in 1980 and again in 1988.

She taught school a number of years and opened the legal aid office in Yarmouth Nova Scotia before entering politics. She has worked as a government consultant and is a member of the Nova Scotia Barristers Society. Until last Fall she was associated with the former firm of Pink MacDonald Harding in Yarmouth Nova Scotia.

During her time as a Member of Parliament she was a member and chairperson on the Fisheries, Forestry and Environment committee, member of the Health and Welfare, Defence and other parliamentary committees. She was active on the Canada-United States Inter-parliamentary Committee. She was a permanent delegate to the United Nations in the fall of 1977 and again in 1982. She has always been interested and took part in many international delegations throughout her time in politics.

Panel 2

Michael Hawes (see above)

Russell Kalmacoff

For the past twenty-six years, Mr. Kalmacoff has held the position of President and CEO of Rockmount Financial Corporation in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, which specializes in corporate finance. The Corporation has been engaged in securities and property investment, as well as financial intermediation and mortgage banking. Mr. Kalmacoff held previous positions at Nesbott Thomson Securities Ltd (1971-76), Nu-West Homes Limited (1968-71), A.E. LePage Ltd. (1967-68) and Salomon Brothers (1966).

Mr. Kalmacoff is a UC Berkeley alumnus, with an MBA from the School of Business in 1966. In addition to his dedication to the Canadian Studies Program, he acts as the UC Berkeley MBA Alumni Rep for Canada. He has published a widely used text on the Canadian mortgage market.

His Directorships include Crown Properties International Corporation, Trafina Energy Ltd., Hub Oil Company Ltd., and the International Avenue Arts and Cultural Centre.

John Vardalas

Visiting Scholar, Office for the History of Science and Technology, UC Berkeley

Panel 3

Thomas G. Barnes, Department of History and Law, Berkeley; Co-Chair of Canadian Studies

Born 29 April 1930 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, the only child of Professor Demas E. Barnes and Helen G. Barnes (née Garden), Mr. Barnes attended Shady Side Academy, Pittsburgh, public schools in Ada and Lima Ohio, and graduated from Schenley High School, Pittsburgh, in 1948. He attended Harvard College, 1948-1952, graduating with an A.B. magna cum laude in History, Phi Beta Kappa. In 1952 he matriculated at Oxford University through Corpus Christi College, receiving the D.Phil. in History in 1955. Concurrently he read for the English bar at Lincoln's Inn, London.

He began teaching history and political science at Lycoming College, Williamsport, Pennsylvania, in February 1956. He joined the History Department at the University of California at Berkeley in 1960, and the Law School faculty in 1965. He is Professor of History and Law and Co-Chair of the Canadian Studies Program (International and Area Studies) which he helped found in 1982. Since 1976 he has served on the faculty committee for the ROTC program, and has been its chair since 1990; he takes much pride in contributing to the education of American military officers. As an Assistant Dean of Students during the Free Speech Movement, 1964, he was on the right side of the barricades. He has no present intention of retiring from teaching, which he enjoys enormously.

Mr. Barnes' fields are English legal history, Tudor-Stuart English history, French legal institutions under Henri IV, law in colonial America, the history of war, and the early history of Nova Scotia, in which he has published extensively, books and articles. Co-author of a general European history, he also wrote the Centennial History of Hastings College of the Law (1978). Since 1982, as Chairman of the Editorial Advisory Board of The Legal Classics Library he has written Public Record Office, London, Member of the Council and State Correspondent for the Selden Society, and was Project Director of the Anglo-American Legal History Project of the American Bar Foundation, 1965-1986. He was a Councillor of the Association for Canadian Studies in the U.S., 1987-1991, and is currently Vice-President. He received the Alexander Prize of the Royal Historical Society, 1958, and has held Huntington Library, American Council of Learned Societies, and Guggenheim fellowships. Mr. Barnes co-founded of the Canadian Studies Program at Berkeley in 1982. he was Vice-President of ACSUS during 1999-2001, and is currently serving as President for the term 2001-2003.

Mr. Barnes served in the Pennsylvania National Guard, 1946-1949, reaching the exalted rank of buck Sergeant (as chief of an artillery section). He was co-founder, Vice-Provost, and Praelector in Church History of St. Joseph of Arimathea Anglican Theological College, Berkeley, 1977-1984. His hobbies are outdoors and on water.

In 1955, Mr. Barnes married Jeanne-Marie H.M. Dubus in Paris, France. During the academic year they live in Berkeley, where Mrs. Barnes is an interior decorator, but summer in southwestern Nova Scotia at a family home and woodlot settled by Mr. Barnes' Loyalist great-great-great grandfather in 1784. Much work, lots of dry-rot, some fish. They have three surviving (bilingual) children, all happily married, five grandchildren, and family in three countries on two continents and Guam.

David Haglund, Department of Political Studies, Queen's University

Dr. Haglund is Director of the Centre for International Relations, Queen's University (Kingston, Ontario), and Professor in its Department of Political Studies. After receiving his Ph.D. in International Relations in 1978 from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, in Washington, D.C., he assumed teaching and research positions at the University of British Columbia. In 1983 he came to Queen's. He has held visiting professorships in France, at the University of Strasbourg in 1989-90, and in Germany, where he was affiliated with the German-Canadian Centre of the University of Bonn, during the 1996-97 academic year. He has also been a visiting researcher at the Stiftung Wissenschaft und Politik, in Ebenhausen (now Berlin), and the Fondation pour la Recherche Stratégique, Paris.

His research focusses on transatlantic security, and on Canadian and American international security policy. Among his books on transatlantic security are Alliance Within the Alliance? Franco-German Military Cooperation and the European Pillar of Defense (1991); Homeward Bound? Allied Forces in the New Germany (1992, co-edited with Olaf Mager); From Euphoria to Hysteria: Western European Security After the Cold War (1993); The "New Peacekeeping" and European Security: German and Canadian Interests and Issues (1995, co-edited with Hans-Georg Ehrhart); Will NATO Go East? The Debate Over Enlarging the Atlantic Alliance (1996); Pondering NATO's Nuclear Options: Gambits for a Post-Westphalian World (1999); and Security, Strategy and the Global Economics of Defence Production (1999, co-edited with S. Neil MacFarlane). His most recent monograph is entitled The North Atlantic Triangle Revisited: Canadian Grand Strategy at Century's End (2000). His most recent edited books are New NATO, New Century: Canada, the United States, and the Future of the Atlantic Alliance (2000); The France-US Leadership Race: Closely Watched Allies (2000); What NATO for Canada? (2000); and Over Here and Over There: Canada-US Defence Cooperation in an Era of Interoperability (2001).

Arnold Beichman, Hoover Institution, Stanford University

Arnold Beichman, a political scientist, writer, and former journalist, has been a visiting scholar and research fellow at the Hoover Institution since 1982.

He is an expert in international relations and is currently researching political events in the former Soviet Union as well as developing a biography of former vice president Henry A. Wallace. Beichman is the author of five books: The Other State Department, Herman Wouk: The Novelist as Social Historian, Yuri Andropov: New Challenge to the West (coauthored), Nine Lies about America, with a foreword by Tom Wolfe, and The Long Pretense: Soviet Treaty Diplomacy, 1917–1990, with a foreword by William F. Buckley. Nine Lies about America was republished in 1995 with a new introduction under the title Anti-American Myths: Their Causes and Consequences (Transaction, 1995).

His latest book is CNN's Cold War Documentary: Issues and Controversy (Hoover Press, 1999).

He is a regular columnist for the Washington Times, and his articles are published in numerous newspapers across the United States and Canada. Beichman has been a member of the editorial advisory board of the Washington Times since 1984.

He also has written for numerous academic journals and popular publications. His articles have appeared in the New York Times Magazine and Book Review, the Wall Street Journal, the Christian Science Monitor, the London Daily Telegraph, Commentary, Encounter, the Weekly Standard, the National Review, the AFL-CIO News, American Spectator, and the Los Angeles Times. He also has been a guest on many television and radio shows, including the PBS program Firing Line.

A founding member of the Consortium for the Study of Intelligence in Washington, D.C., he is also a former vice president and trustee of the Philadelphia Society.

Before his career as an academician, he was a labor editor, a journalist at the United Nations, and a foreign correspondent. As a reporter, he covered such events as the Algerian rebellion, the uprising in the Belgian Congo, the war in Vietnam, the Nigerian civil war, and the war in Yemen.

Beichman taught at the University of Massachusetts, the University of British Columbia, the University of Calgary, and, as an adjunct professor, Georgetown University.

Beichman received his bachelor's, master's, and doctorate degrees in political science from Columbia University.